

Current Surveys - Updated August 2006

We are currently conducting a survey in three countries (France, Portugal, and Belgium) on “The aspects of Leadership: is there a difference between Female and Male approaches to being a Leader?”. This questionnaire however only is available in English – it is currently being translated into French, Dutch and Portuguese.

If you would like to participate in this survey, contact alfons.ameel@variations.be and you will receive the questionnaire and more information about the research protocol.

By participating in the survey and expressing your interest in the final results, you are entitled to receiving the summary report.

As we plan to present the survey results at a special event in June 2007, you will also receive an invitation to attend this event.
